Spiritual Director
Russ Petrus, M. Div.

EDUCATIONAL DIRECTOR CHRISTINE SCHENK, CSJ, is the founding director of FutureChurch. She led the organization from 1990-2013 and worked to transform a diocesan network of 28 parish councils and 100 parish leaders into an international organization of over 3500 parish-centered activists reflecting the values of Vatican II. Currently she writes an award-winning column "Simply Spirit" for the National Catholic Reporter. Her groundbreaking book Crispina and Her Sisters: Women and Authority in Early Christianity details original research into iconic motifs of female authority found in early Christian art and archaeology. Published by Fortress Press, the book won the Catholic Press award in 2018. Chris created and led pilgrimages to Rome sites of women leaders in early Christianity in 2006, 2007, 2013, and 2014. Schenk is one of three nuns featured in the award-winning documentary Radical Grace.

SPIRITUAL DIRECTOR RUSS PETRUS currently serves as Associate Director for FutureChurch. He holds an M.Div. from Weston Jesuit School of Theology and the School of Theology and Ministry at Boston College. Jesuit-educated and formed since high school, Russ is well-versed in Ignatian Spirituality but has also been heavily influenced by the many Franciscan priests, brothers, and sisters with whom he studied. Prior to joining FutureChurch, Russ engaged in parish and college ministry for over ten years in the areas of life-long faith formation, liturgy coordination, RCIA direction, and music ministry. Russ has developed and facilitated numerous programs and retreats on topics ranging from contemplative prayer to social justice for a variety of audiences. At FutureChurch Russ has created and led dozens of profoundly engaging prayer services and reflections. Along with his many talents, Russ is trained as a classical musician.

At 2:00 pm, we will depart to visit Santa Maria Sopra Minerva, the only public Gothic church in Rome. It houses the tomb of St. Catherine of Siena, and we will have a prayer service honoring this great female doctor of the Church. The tomb of the Dominican painter Fra Angelico is also here. The Church is close to the Pantheon which we will visit, time permitting. Upon our return to the guesthouse, we enjoy Sr. Chris's lecture: Introduction to the Study of Women in Early Christianity. Dinner is on your own.

Then Sr. Chris guides our tour of the fascinating basilica of San Clemente, site of one of the earliest Christian house churches, next to an ancient Mithraic altar at the lowest level. Sr. Chris leads our prayerful reflection honoring early martyrs and women leaders, Saints Perpetua and Felicity. Lunch is on your own at one of the many restaurants enroute to the Coliseum and the Roman Forum. Then we have a guided tour of the Coliseum, the Roman and Imperial Fora and the Market of Trajan. We will then visit the catacombs of Marcellinus and Petrus to view rarely seen frescos of women leading funerary meals, and visit the above-ground tomb of Constantine's mother, St. Helena. After enjoying Sr. Chris's lecture on Women and patronage in early Christianity, we'll have dinner together.

Day 5. Sunday March 17: Morning free; afternoon: Mass at Catacombs of Domitilla and Church of Santa Sabina. After lunch on your own, we visit the Catacombs of Domitilla to view the beautiful Veneranda and Petronilla fresco that gives strong evidence for the female exercise of authority in the early Church. This will be followed by mass in the catacombs. We then tour the Basilica of Santa Sabina at the Aventine, built on the site of an early Christian house church owned by the Roman matron, Sabina, who was later declared a Christian saint. After Sr. Chris Schenk's lecture on Women and authority in 4th century sarcophagus art, we'll have dinner together in the Piazza Navona area.

Back in Rome, you'll have lunch on your own and a free afternoon and evening before our a farewell dinner together.

ITINERARY CONTINUED

NAPLES, POMPEII (optional trip)

Day 8 Wednesday April 3: Travel to Naples: Catacombs of San Gennaro, Basilica of San Gennaro Extra Moenia, The Archaeological Museum of Naples Morning: Travel to Naples via high speed train (about 9 euros) for a tour of the famous Catacombs of San Genarro , which date to the second century CE. Here we discover the frescos of Bitalia and Cerula. These two "Women of the Word" are portrayed in an orans (prayer) position with four gospel texts above their heads. (<http://www.catacombedinapoli.it/it/luoghi/catacombe-di-san-gennaro-napoli>) 1 hour guided tour ca. 9 euro (need to find out about group prices), open 10am-5pm Optional: Tour the nearby fifth century Basilica of San Gennaro Extra Moenia (<http://www.campaniacrbc.it/portal/generaDetttaglio.do?idPagina=20H674&tipoScheda=L>) C) The Archaeological Museum of Naples. (<https://www.museoarcheologicoinapoli.it/en/>) ...or spend the rest of the day enjoying Neapolitan culture and cuisine.

Day 9 Thursday April 4: Day trip from Naples to Pompei and Herculaneum and back to Naples.

Once buried under a blanket of ash from Mount Vesuvius' eruption in 79 AD, the city of Pompei wasn't unearthed until the 18th century. We will explore the city where Eumachia and Julia Felix ran successful businesses, including a tour of Julia Felix's large estate.

In the coastal town of Ercolana and the ruins of Herculaneum, forty percent of the dedicatory statues in the theater and forum areas are of women. Though Pompeii is more widely known, Herculaneum hosts a wealth of archaeological treasures. Explore ancient monuments, preserved mosaics and fossils nearly 2,000 years old.

Note from Sr. Chris: This tour focuses on visiting the two main archaeological sites of the region: Pompeii and Herculaneum, the ancient roman cities swept away by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in 79 AD. Considered of great importance for the Roman Empire, they were at their social and economic peak at the time of the disaster. The main difference between the two places is that Pompeii was a bustling city, gateway for merchants and travellers, while the latter was more of a residential village for aristocrats and intellectuals. Stop along the way to a local factory to learn more about the process of Cameos (carved sea shells) and Corals craft.

Lunch break to a local restaurant with a 3 course tourist menu, drinks not included.

Take bus back to Naples. Final gathering and wrap up. Dinner on your own.

Day 10 Friday April 5: Fly home

Other Practical Details

While in Rome, we will stay at the Suore di Cristo (Sisters of Christ) guest house. The guest house is in Via Merulana 174 (Google maps: <https://goo.gl/maps/qDYLvMdawpj>). Via Merulana is an ancient street connects St. John Lateran to St. Mary Major; both are within walking distance. To one side of Via Merulana is the most multicultural neighborhood of Rome with many ethnic restaurants (Piazza Vittorio), to the other side is a quiet, upper middle class neighborhood. The Franciscan University (Antonianum) is around the corner. The Colosseum is within walking distance, as is the main train station (Termini).

The guest house has recently been renovated (October 2017) and its distinctive feature is the variety of the rooms - no room is like the other! There is a chapel, breakfast room, and garden space. The sisters have their living quarters in a separate building behind the guest house. Sr. Ernestine from Madagascar, who speaks English, runs the guest house together with a very efficient Polish lady, Renata.

The guest house will be our home for the six days in Rome, providing us with breakfast, a room to listen to talks by Sr. Christine Schenk, a garden space to relax, and a chapel for reflection that's accessible 24 hours. There is a vending machine for drinks and snacks, and wifi connection throughout the house. As with most religious houses in Rome, there is a curfew at 11pm, but the sisters will be happy to give us the key if we ask in advance.

About this pilgrimage

Educational director, Sr. Christine Schenk will offer you a once in a lifetime journey exploring the lives and history of women in Early Christianity. Sr. Chris' groundbreaking research, now captured in her awarding winning book, Crispina and Her Sisters, will provide the backdrop for this pilgrimage.

On this pilgrimage you will, "retrieve the memory of influential women whose witness has for too long been invisible or distorted in Christian memory" with the "hope that drawing attention to these ancient images of early Christian women in iconic authority portrayals may help us reset our preconceived mental models."

Spiritual director and Associate Director, Russ Petrus will help you enter into the lives of our foremothers of faith through individualized prayer services. Russ' gift for prayer and liturgy will be apparent from the start.

You'll not only reap the benefits of Sr. Chris' new and exciting body of research, you will carry it in your heart in a brand new way as Russ leads you into prayer.

Airline Tickets Some Considerations

Making airline reservations is a fairly simple process, but if you need help, you may want to contact a local travel agent. You will also want to consider if you want to purchase flight insurance in case you cancel for any reason.

You will fly into Rome. If you are joining us for ROME ONLY, on the final day of the tour, you will depart from Rome.

If you wish to join for the Naples, Pompeii trip, you will want to book your flight home from Naples.

If you want to look at reservations on any online site, you'll want to choose a multi-destination flight.
